15:00:44 From Julie McFarland (she/her) to Everyone:

I'm curious about supporting roommates and folx who want to live together.

15:01:21 From Emily Zelaya (she/ella) to Everyone:

Would love to see more co-op housing options.

15:07:13 From Christina H SSF Referral Specialist (she, her) to Everyone:

Good idea Emily.

15:08:28 From Christina H SSF Referral Specialist (she, her) to Everyone:

Acres of Hope in Auburn has this type of housing.

15:09:33 From Tanesha Travis to Everyone:

are there going to be efforts made to house a resource list of housing providers and service providers that will contain what services are provided, eligibility requirements, how to apply for , etc. that is updated on a regular basis for the whole system to access?

15:10:03 From Julie McFarland (she/her) to Everyone:

SHARE Self Help is who I referenced as an example.

Las Vegas is about to launch a similar approach.

Quite a few examples out there for sure.

15:10:43 From Christina H SSF Referral Specialist (she, her) to Everyone:

I am all for this type of housing. It works.

15:11:42 From Christina H SSF Referral Specialist (she, her) to Everyone:
Especially for families.

15:11:43 From Cait Fournier, Sac County BHS to Everyone:
I'm curious how to get buy in from those who would live in the co-housing. I think it's a great model, but I hear on a regular basis that clients do not want shared housing.

15:15:51 From Emily Zelaya (she/ella) to Everyone:
I think folks may not fully understand all the benefits that come from co-housing. For me it was until I visited one, took a tour, and spoke to residents, that made me really become a fan of the model. Perhaps we can ask clients what about shared housing does not appeal to them and then educate and clarify any misconceptions.

15:18:40 From Julie McFarland (she/her) to Everyone:
I love that idea, Emily. We see it “programmatized” and then not be of interest (rules, restrictions) as opposed to just an option for people that’s so common in the community.

Even the language of “shared housed” seems to be a problem or potential hinderance.

15:18:54 From Christina H SSF Referral Specialist (she, her) to Everyone:
Acres of Hope is a non-profit faith based. They have 15 mobile homes fully furnished. It's like a residential/transitional model. One family per unit, community meals, on-site groups, regular meeting with a case manager. Families learn life skills, encouraged to find jobs to save money so they can transition into their own home. Staff available onsite 24/7.

15:19:15 From Tanesha Travis to Everyone:
thank you. just wanted to discuss while we had a chance

15:19:16 From Cait Fournier, Sac County BHS to Everyone:
Education is key for sure!

15:21:03 From Christina H SSF Referral Specialist (she, her) to Everyone:
It is difficult to live in shared housing. From my experience having your own personal space was important. I gained so much from those opportunities.

15:22:36 From Emily Zelaya (she/ella) to Everyone:

Residents in co-housing communities live in separate apartments/homes. The only "shared" space is a community room, playground, large kitchen for community meals.

Maybe incorporate case management or aftercare so that housing stability and self sufficiency could be followed and documented as successful.

15:40:03 From Monica Rocha-Wyatt to Everyone:
yes!

15:40:11 From Christina H SSF Referral Specialist (she, her) to Everyone:
yes. Thank you Peter.

15:41:13 From Afi Farrar - Sac Regional FJC to Everyone:
I agree case management is definitely important where at least 3-6 months of engagement happens for someone to access and have a guide through the different systems based on their needs.

15:45:55 From Tanesha Travis to Everyone:
sorry I have to jump to another call, but thank you for including me. learned a lot from meeting today
