Sacramento YHDP Planning Meeting April 5, 2023

Zoom Recording: 8Pq?F&EL

MEETING MINUTES

The PowerPoint was shared with the group.

The group reviewed the brave space agreements, and one will be added. "Don't be afraid to dream."

The group moved to YAB listening session report out. The following information was shared:

- 1. Housing programs that already exist need to be higher quality. For example, safe spaces, things need to be fixed when they are broken.
- 2. Long term housing is needed.
- 3. Community and safe spaces to heal. Training with YHDP funded and non-funded programs so spaces are safe and community is created.
- 4. Services need to be geared to a variety of backgrounds.
- 5. There needs to be a better system for youth to find services.
- 6. There is a need for prevention/diversion support.
- 7. Programs should not exit programs without a long term plan.
- 8. Community driven programs that support relationships and engage in community.
- 9. There is a need for more services and support while in education.
- 10. Drop-in centers are needed. Or mini one stop places that have basic needs and/or bathrooms, etc.
- 11. Resources are needed outside of downtown and midtown.
- 12. They want mental health services available on site.
- 13. Programs should have smaller caseloads. Services should be offered around boundaries and self-worth.
- 14. Monitoring of programs.
- 15. Voucher system is extremely confusing to navigate, emergency shelter and accessing waitlist is difficult to navigate, and relying on case managers to do their job is an issue because of large caseloads and stuff falling through the cracks.
- 16. They want long term housing, vouchers, prevention/intervention, employment and rental assistance.
- 17. More assistance or potentially a program that incorporates education. Including training for educators and housing for folx who want to go into higher education. Another option would be to do cross-training with educators and housing providers.

The group wanted some education specific questions to be added to the RFP. Megan shared that she has provided education specific examples to the group.

A question was raised around whether or not a project could be geared to a specific subpopulation. Due to fair housing laws programs cannot only serve that population, however, there are programs that are geared towards specific subpopulations but they are open to other subpopulations as well.

The meeting proceeded to a discussion around cross-systems collaboration.

Services breakout:

- Hire and cross train licensed clinicians to be able to provide mental health and substance use treatment
- If we make a shelter or drop in center, make sure there are counselors on site. a specific staff position.
- need more harm reduction there are programs that say they are harm reduction but they are not really, and need safe needle exchange
- make sure programs are not exiting youth b/c of use
- maybe through CQI, have the YAB be a review committee of who was exited for what reason (de-indntified) aned make sure there is grievance and have YAB help create policies for each program and termination policies
- have transparency up front about what would be a reason for termination
- youth homelessness bill of rights
- advocacy around nor drug testing for entry level jobs housing first and employment first philosophies
- advocating for de-stymigitazing of AOD issues
- Train staff at AOD programs on youth issues and LGBTQ.
- LGBTQ center used to have some connections
- share resources and spread responsibility among multiple agencies outside of the creation district
- connections to community resources spirituality, animal care, D and D group, coding,
- connecting services that youth need but also training for youth to become what they want can YYA get a service and then learn about how to become; give YYA routes to success through services and other options

Housing breakout:

- There are a lot of partnerships between housing and other community based organizations.
- Waking the Village coordinates with other entities.
- Blended funding between systems.
- Educating the community on what is available, that includes education with other systems.
- Coordinating between agencies to have consistent and ongoing support to stay housed.
- Resources that are available are good on paper, but there is not availability. How can we do more prevention/diversion resources.

- Creation of warm handoffs between programs so folx do not end up back on the street and/or jump into a new program.
  - Creating a pre-established timeline of events for the YYA and partners.
  - YYA knowing their rights and understanding why they are removed, but instead creating a timeline for them successfully exiting and going into permanent housing or getting other services.
- Doing better outreach between agencies and with agencies and communities. For example, outreach at schools being more robust.

Education and employment breakout:

 Reviewed and workshopped the objectives and action steps for the education/employment goal

Prevention/Diversion breakout:

- Build out and scale existing Prevention and Intervention program to address systems gaps and services
- Hire dedicated staff for the following systems: juvenile justice, adult justice, education go into school clubs/create a club,
- Hire youth and folks with lived experience as peer mentors (employment)
- Build a club that folks could join in order to have a low barrier way of accessing resources and information: social conscious/social justice club
- P&I station at mobile sites that offer respite and drop-in centers
- Build out flexible funds that can be used quickly and dynamically
- RRH program for folks already housed
- Hotel vouchers to bridge
- Build out collaboration with college programs in order educate on housing navigation, accessing P&I for fund needs (system for smooth referrals for funding)
- Build out shared living initiatives with services

^^ so cool!

15:36:15 From Megan Johnson to Everyone:

Also Montana had several projects focused on native populations

15:39:01 From Grace Loescher to Everyone:

Love that idea, Raven!

15:39:56 From Megan Johnson to Everyone:

Yay Raven you teed us up!

15:41:36 From Megan Johnson to Everyone:

Thank you for bringing that up Raven 🙂

15:43:00 From Tara Turrentine to Everyone:

Great connections, Raven!

15:43:07 From Raven Lyulph to Everyone:

I just wanted to put here, that assemblies or staff meetings with homeless liaisons and/or program CMs, with schools could be a valuable resource.

15:51:52 From LeeAnnBrown to Jesse SSF, CoC Analyst(Direct Message):

Hi Jesse, I came in late but I did notice that the Education Director joined the meeting. I am not sure if you did introductions but his name is Joshua Martinez

15:52:31 From Jesse SSF, CoC Analyst to LeeAnnBrown(Direct Message):

Hey! Glad you made it. We did do intros. and I had seen your email come in today.

15:53:27 From LeeAnnBrown to Jesse SSF, CoC Analyst(Direct Message):

great. Thanks

15:53:38 From Tiffany (she/they) to Everyone:

Could be because YHDP funds can only be used for Youth 18-24; or unaccompanied minors-but that's a tough crew to engage given state laws, etc.

15:54:12 From Tiffany (she/they) to Everyone:

Me too!! Susanna was my boss 🙂

15:54:21 From Susanna Curry (she/her) to Everyone:

Yeah Tiffany!

15:55:00 From Waking the Village to Everyone:

Agree with Tiffany's point above. These funds definitely are challenging to flow toward early childhood ed or minors attached to families.

15:55:01 From Piper Ehlen to Everyone:

Sorry my internet is giving me issues

15:56:19 From Megan Johnson to Everyone:

Replying to "Me too!! Susanna was..."

What?! I did not know that ::

15:57:23 From Raven Lyulph to Everyone:

Women's Empowerment could be a very valuable program with many resources as well. They have amazing staff, are focused more on any aged women, trans, and nonbinary people in the community, they have many resources in housing, job prep, quest speakers and workers, etc. And are willing to learn and grow with people in the community. They could possibly be a good partner organization. They also offer ready to rent that can lead into rapid rehousing and other certificates, to get people ready for supporting themselves, having an income, getting sober, etc.

15:57:29 From Tara Turrentine to Everyone:

Replying to "Me too!! Susanna was..."

I use that research in so many of my trainings, as the "Why" slide!!! Great work Susanna and Tiffany!

15:57:29 From Megan Johnson to Everyone:
